SANTA CLARA'S EARLY BIRDS

SANTA CLARA'S EARLY BIRDS

Not too long ago it was possible for an engineer to attend a university, enter engineering practice, and be reasonably certain that he could remain abreast of technical developments throughout his professional life. The number of new innovations introduced each year was small, and he could accommodate to these changes relatively easily. Since World War II, however, this placid scene has changed. The current rate of introduction of new knowledge about science and the applications of science makes it increasingly difficult to remain current. A particular specialty may be eliminated or seriously modified by the introduction of new methods and materials. Assignments which might occupy most of each man's time are now completed by computers. Technological obsolescence of mental abilities, comparable to technological displacement of manual skills, is very real.

Continuing education - formal education which parallels job experience - is one way in which the efforts of the individual to remain current can be sustained. Evening classes have been the traditional method of attending courses offered outside of working hours. Since both the students and the instructor may have had a long day, fatigue is a constant adversary. To overcome this serious problem, Santa Clara initiated a part-time program for employed engineers in the hours before work. The fresh end of the day is best for learning. It was immediately tabbed the "early bird program" with all the connotations thereof. Engineers who have already earned a bachelor's degree in some area of engineering, science, or mathematics are admitted to courses which are scheduled between seven and nine in the morning. Each course receives two hours credit. A student can enroll in five different courses during the five days of the week. A master's degree may be earned in three to four years.

Should a student attend graduate school full-time or accept employment and continue in a program such as the Early Bird? The answer is probably both. Each individual's financial, marital interest pattern controls his choice. But it is apparent that many students who earn a master's degree full-time continue in course work to help sustain their technical competence. It is no longer possible to count on an education that ends when the job assignment begins.

Rev. Thomas D. Terry, S.J.
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

At Santa Clara, the undergraduate colleges are the care of the University. However in tune with modern education, the University has graduate programs in three of its colleges. The larger two are in Business Administration and Engineering, each of which has over 600 students. The vast majority of these are working for Master's degrees. However within the last year the University has instituted a doctoral program.

The Master's program in the College of Arts and Sciences is smaller. It has less than 100 students in different departments. The M.A. degree is given in English and History. In Education two Master's degrees are given. One in teaching at the secondary level; the other for pupil personnel services. In addition to these, many students spend their fifth year obtaining a general secondary credential which permits them to teach in public schools.

One other unique program is the M.S.T.M. (Master of Science in the teaching of Mathematics). This is a program for people who are already teaching who come to Santa Clara each summer to do this work.

The Graduate Division of the University serves both our own students who wish further education and at the same time provides service to the area. The majority of students enrolled in the Graduate Division are graduates of colleges other than Santa Clara.

The Graduate Division is an ambitious and busy part of the campus. Classes begin at 7 a.m. and end at 10 p.m.

FIRST YEAR STUDENTS

The first year class is the largest in the history of SCU law school with seventy-six students entering. Each faces three years of intensive study to attain his goal. Ahead are hours of pouring over case notes and decisions which form the basis of the Common Law and paramount figures of judicial history will become familiar names as the student reads and interprets their decisions. The law's past greatness is studied to understand its foundation so that the student can add to its future development.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

The Student Bar Association is the student governing body of the School of Law. Open to all students, the Student Bar is responsible for the Campbell Lecture Series, Moot Court, St. Thomas More Society and all social events held for the law students. The Student Bar is also charged with the preservation and administration of the student code of honor, and each student is the censor of his own conduct and that of his fellow students.

SECOND YEAR STUDENTS

The Moot Court program competition was the outstanding project in which all members of the second year class participated. The students were divided into two-man teams to argue unresolved problems in the law. Oral argument was presented before a three man appellate court which was composed of attorneys and judges. Roger Sanborn was the winner of this year's competition.

The second year class actually participated in the Student Bar Association under the leadership of James Leathers, Jr., class representative. Student Bar officers from the class included Wm. Sullivan, Henry Talifer and Juliet Chargin.

Members of this class also participated as candidates for the Santa Clara Lawyer, the law school's legal publication. Several of the candidates had their articles published in this legal periodical.

ASME: DESIGNERS OF TOMORROW

The Santa Clara Student Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers strives to acquaint its members and other interested students with the role of the mechanical engineer in business and industry. Field trips to local engineering concerns as well as lectures and informal talks by practicing engineers help to accomplish this.

Another annual A.S.M.E. activity is the regional speech contest, at which contestants from the Western U.S. vie for honors and cash awards. This year the Regional Conference was held at the Arizona State University in Tempe and several SCU members attended.

Tau Beta Pi is a national honor society, founded to honor those who have distinguished themselves through outstanding scholarship and exemplary character in the field of engineering. The California Zeta Chapter was established at Santa Clara in 1956, and presently elects about ten students to its membership each year.

The annual chapter project is a scholarship fund, which provides a partial scholarship to a deserving engineering student every year.

A fine example of this year's membership was Pete Sullivan, who received the Hewlett and Packard Fellowship from Stanford University. He will receive $2500 for the coming year to earn his MA in engineering.

PHYSICS SOCIETY STIMULATES INTEREST IN THE PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Arousing interest in the sciences, introducing people of like interests to each other, bringing physics students and faculty together, and, on occasions, just plain having a good time. These are some of the things that the Santa Clara Student Section of the American Institute of Physics—Physics Society for short—strives to do through meetings, movies, lecturers—and picnics. A successful year for this group means bringing together on different levels of communication many different people interested in physics and related sciences: students in discussion with each other, students hearing what learned men of science have to offer, and students and faculty meeting on a more personal basis at social events.

ROWING ASSOCIATION SPRINTS TO AN OUTSTANDING YEAR

He has sacrificed many of the renowned pleasures of college days. In the spring, at least, his social life is non-existent. No one on campus knows physical toil as he and his teammates do. Often his object is to drive himself beyond the known limits of his endurance. He receives few tangible rewards, but finds others.

He accepts and enjoys the anonymity inherent in his way of life. He claims moments of pleasure beyond those attainable in other sports and he believes what he is doing is essentially better than what others do. He likes belonging to an interdependent group. In fact he is clannish, saying only those of his kind can know the reason why—why row?

He is an oarsman.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA COACH OF THE YEAR

PAT MALLEY

This season, Bronco head coach Pat Malley was selected Northern California Coach of the Year for the second time in three years. The 1953 University of Santa Clara graduate has coached the Broncos since their return to football in 1959. A former guard on Bronco teams in 1950-52, Malley coached while in the United States Army, compiling a 20-3 record with outstanding service teams.

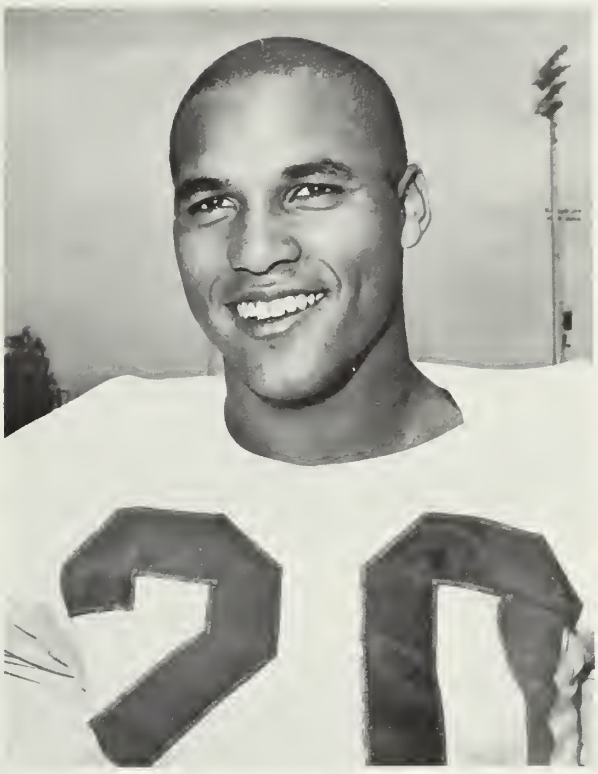
In 1956, he became head varsity football coach at St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco. During his three years at St. Ignatius, his team won the city championship twice. His prep coaching record was 20-7-2.

At Santa Clara, Malley sports a fine 34-19 record. In 1963 when his team had a 6-3 mark he first received Coach of the Year honors. This past season, the Broncos compiled an 8-1 record, the best since returning to football. A heart-breaking one-point loss to Santa Barbara marred the Bronco slate. Malley puts the accent on passing and a strong blocking while balancing the attack with effective running.

BOB MIRANDA

Bobby Mirondo, the most highly occlaimed footboll player since SCU returned to footboll six years aga, is perhaps the greotest boll corrier in Bronco Gridiron histary. Miranda shattered former greot Ken Cosenaga's three-yeor rushing record by grinding out 2,196 yards. He holds severol Sonto Cloro foatboll records including most yords goined rushing in one seoson (1,005 in 1963); most yords goined rushing in one gome (186 yords ogoinst Son Froncisco Stote, 1963); most touchdowns rushing in one season, (10 in 1964); and most times carried the ball in one seoson (156 in 1963).

Among his post-seoson awards are: All-Catholic, All-American, 1964; Little All-Coost, 1964, 1965; Honoroble Mention, Little All-Americon Grid team, 1965. The picture below shaws Miranda picking up his two thousandth yard against the University of British Columbio this yeor.



BILL McPHERSON

Bill McPherson, the indispensable assistant coach of the Broncos, graduated from Santa Clara in 1954 having played football and baseball at the University. Shortly there-after, he became varsity line coach at Bellarmine. The Bells were perennial champions of the Catholic Athletic League and were always high in Northern California rankings. With the stepped-up football program, McPherson came to Santa Clara in 1963 as line coach. In his three years, the Bronco gridiron machine has compiled a 21-6 record. McPherson's importance and proficiency as assistant coach is noted by the fact that during his 3-year tenure, Head Coach Pat Malley has twice been selected as Northern California Coach of the Year. The Broncos' tenacious line play and stingy defense, as illustrated on the opposite page are products of McPherson's coaching.

CAPTAIN ERIC PAULSON

One of the finest ball-players to ever don a basketball uniform at SCU, Paulson is noted for his magician's hands and speed on the court. He was the 1964-65 captain as a junior and led SCU to an upset championship in the 1964 WCAC Tournament. He was chosen outstanding player in the same tournament and was named to the 1965 all-league team. An outstanding shooter as well as team-leader, he has proved to be the most consistent Bronco the last two years, blazing the nets for a 13.3 average.
